Join the Syria Peace & Justice group for our Peace Pilgrimage for Syria on Tuesday 10th December - International Human Rights Day. This action will consist of visits to the embassies of key players in the Syrian conflict, plus Whitehall and the UN High Commission for Refugees. In the evening, from 6pm, we will hold a candlelit vigil outside the Syrian embassy, 8 Belgrave Square, London SW1X 8PH

We aim to raise awareness of the desperate situation in Syria, & call for:

- An immediate ceasefire, especially in besieged areas with urgent humanitarian needs;
- All Syrian and foreign parties to urgently address the desperate humanitarian situation and end all human rights abuses without further violence;
- All foreign actors to stop fuelling the conflict through supplies of arms and ammunition, troops and military financing;
- An inclusive, Syrian-led peace process;
- Political prisoners and arbitrarily-detained persons on all sides to be released immediately;
- The UK and other countries to accept their fair share of refugees;
- Full accountability for war crimes and other human rights violations committed by all sides.

Furthermore, we stand in solidarity with Syrian activists working non-violently for peace, freedom, human rights and social justice in Syria.
